Statement from WCHA

MADISON, Wis. – Minnesota State University women's hockey coach Eric Means has decided not to coach tonight's first round WCHA playoff game at the University of Wisconsin.

Said Means, "After having some time to think about the events that occurred during our game at the University of Minnesota Duluth on February 17, I have decided to voluntarily step away from the bench for our first play-off game versus the University of Wisconsin to reflect more deeply about my actions last Friday. And although I have not been suspended by the league, I am confident that this time away from the game will provide the opportunity to consider how this situation might have been handled differently. I will have no further comments regarding this issue."

"The WCHA fully concurs with this decision from Coach Means," said WCHA Associate Commissioner Sara Martin.
